A photograph of a restaurant dish. Two long, cylindrical pastries, likely clatite, are served on a white rectangular plate. They are filled with a yellowish cream and decorated with a zigzag drizzle of dark chocolate. To the left of the pastries is a small white bowl containing a thick, brown chocolate spread. In the background, a tall glass of beer with a thick head of foam is visible. To the right, a silver spoon and a metal napkin holder with a white napkin are on the dark wooden table. The background is a warm, textured wall.
