Dijelić povijesti

Glagoljica je najstarije slavensko pismo, nastalo u 9. stoljeću, a stvorio ju je Konstantin Ćiril kako bi Slaveni mogli čitati crkvene tekstove na svom jeziku. Iako se koristila u više slavenskih zemalja, najduže je očuvana u Hrvatskoj, posebno na području Kvarnera i otoka Krka. Bašćanska ploča iz 1100. godine, pronađena u Baški, jedan je od najvažnijih glagoljaških spomenika jer sadrži prvi poznati zapis imena Hrvatska. Posebno se ističe i Vrbnik, koji se naziva kolijevkom glagoljice na Krku, jer je bio središte popova glagoljaša – svećenika koji su njegovali i širili ovo pismo.

Vrbnik je pored glagoljaške baštine poznat i po svojim jedinstvenim obilježjima i pričama. Smješten je na litici visokoj 49 metara iznad mora, s koje se pruža prekrasan pogled na Vinodolski kanal. Posebno se ističe ulica Klančić, koja se smatra najužom ulicom na svijetu, široka samo 43 centimetra. Vrbnik je poznat i po vrbničkoj žlahtini, autohtonom bijelom vinu proizvedenom od grožđa koje raste isključivo u Vrbničkom polju. Naziv "žlahtina" dolazi od staroslavenske riječi za plemenit, što ovo vino čini posebnim simbolom kraja. Tijekom ljeta u Vrbniku se održavaju događaji poput Dana vina i Glagoljaških večeri, kada se slavi spoj povijesti, kulture i lokalnih običaja. Sve to čini Vrbnik čuvarom starog pisma, ali i živopisnim mjestom koje oduševljava posjetitelje.

A piece of history

Glagolitic Script is the oldest Slavic alphabet, created in the 9th century by Constantine Cyril to enable the Slavs to read church texts in their own language. Although it was used in several Slavic countries, it was best preserved in Croatia, especially in the Kvarner region and on the island of Krk. The Baška Tablet from 1100, found in Baška, is one of the most significant Glagolitic monuments as it contains the first known mention of the name Croatia. Vrbnik is often called the cradle of Glagolitic script on Krk because it was a center of Glagolitic priests—clergy who preserved and spread this unique writing system.

Besides its Glagolitic heritage, Vrbnik is known for its unique features and stories. It is perched on a 49-meter-high cliff above the sea, offering breathtaking views of the Vinodol Channel. The town is home to Klančić Street, considered the narrowest street in the world, measuring only 43 centimeters wide. Vrbnik is also famous for Vrbnička Žlahtina, an indigenous white wine made from grapes grown exclusively in the Vrbnik Field. The name "Žlahtina" comes from an old Slavic word meaning noble, highlighting the wine's special status. During the summer, events like the Wine Days and Glagolitic Evenings celebrate the town's blend of history, culture, and local traditions. All this makes Vrbnik not only a guardian of an ancient script but also a charming place that continues to captivate visitors.
