biochemical concentrations of glucose, urea, creatinine, and electrolytes were determined. The animals were then sacrificed by perfusion with 100 ml of 0.1 M phosphate buffered saline (pH 7.4) containing penicillin (100,000 units/ml), streptomycin (100,000 units/ml), and nystatin (400 units/ml). The kidneys were removed and weighed. The right kidney was cut into two halves and one half was placed in 10% formalin for histological examination. The other half was snap frozen in liquid nitrogen and stored at -80°C until assayed for protein, creatinine, and urea. The left kidney was cut into two halves and one half was snap frozen in liquid nitrogen and stored at -80°C until assayed for protein, creatinine, and urea. The other half was placed in 10% formalin for histological examination. The kidneys were then sectioned and stained with hematoxylin and eosin (H&E) for histological examination. The sections were then mounted on glass slides and covered with a coverslip. The slides were then viewed under a light microscope and the results were recorded.
