

An aerial photograph of the rusted, skeletal remains of a shipwreck, identified as the SS Maheno, lying on a sandy beach. The ship's structure is heavily corroded, showing a deep orange-brown color. The background features the ocean with white-capped waves breaking onto the shore.

RUST

Literally "RUST", a material on which you can see the signs of time that tell a past, many stories..

A JOURNEY

Try closing your eyes...imagine the old rusty wreck of a ship..."

It was 1904 when the luxury ship SS MAHENO set sail from Scotland towards Australia.

During her ten-year journey, she was the victim of many events, changing routes several times between Europe, Canada, Australia and New Zealand, arriving in the Mediterranean where she served as a hospital ship during the First World War. At the end of her commercial life, during her last voyage to Japan to be dismantled, she was caught in a cyclone and was dragged to Fraser Island "Australia" where she was then abandoned to rot.

During one of my trips I found myself in front of this wreck and i was fascinated by it, a series of thoughts were triggered in me that made me passionate about this element, to which I dedicate the name of my restaurant in which I will bring experiences and flavors that I have lived.
